

George Washington Carver

George Washington was one of the finest scientists the World has ever known. When George was 12 he left his home to go to a black school but there was only one teacher and 75 children in a small room.

George taught himself how to read. George made things from peanuts! George and his family were kidnapped buy slave traders. George Washington also made a building material from peanuts! And other amazing things.

