Sunflower Lanyards

Children wear sunflower lanyards as a discreet way to signal that they have a hidden disability. It indicates to the public, staff and other children that the child may need additional support, patience or understanding in busy environments.

These disabilities are not immediately obvious and include autism, ADHD, sensory processing disorders, anxiety, or chronic illnesses.

Following feedback from some of the children, who already wear a lanyard outside of school, they have asked if we can buy one for them to wear at school. If you would like your child to wear a sunflower lanyard please complete the form by Friday 22nd May: Sunflower lanyard – Fill out form

Please note that our positive behaviour policy continues to be an expectation of all children. We do adapt consequences linked to age and understanding.
